The art deco-inspired One Fifth Collection goes glam with a color scheme of black and gold

Double Debut

Two new Ralph Lauren Home collections made their Greenwich debut recently. The Art Deco-inspired One Fifth collection offers a sumptuous array of bedding, pillows and glassware. Black satins and velvets are the perfect backdrop for shimmering metallics and vintage-inspired motifs. The look is effortlessly Old Hollywood, and will no doubt make you feel as glamorous as one of its stars. The Brookfield Collection is an updated take on the classic thoroughbred estate, with sporty details and a color palette of olives and violets. Corduroys, wool plaids and cable-knit cashmeres give the collection a classic but relaxed look. Get both collections at 265 Greenwich Avenue, Greenwich, 203-869-2054, ralphlaurenhome.com.

Seasons of Change

The Summer House is now under new management. New owners and lifelong friends Megan Freyer and Margaret Schwartz officially took the reins from founder Tyler Taylor in September, and bring fresh vision to the already established haven for antiques and one-of-a-kind finds. They won't change the vibe of the place, but Schwartz says they plan to add some pieces "with a downtown, bolder vibe, and build up the smaller accent pieces." Stop in for great finds like these knitted cushions, perfect for fall. 32 Forest Street, New Canaan, 203-594-9550, thesummerhouseonline.com.

Plunk Collection

Interior designer Mar Silver's new Plunk Collection is a mix of curated vintage items and custom-designed pieces that blur the lines between feminine and masculine. With a combination of materials like Lucite, wood and iron, and pieces like these elegant but industrial tables, the look is modern, but not spare on style.
